BOGUS BUTTER MEN FINED.

A LARGE NUMBER OF THEM PLEAD GUILTY. WEARLY $5,000 TAKEN IN-DISCRIMINATION IN THE

PUNISHMENT. Sellers of oleomargarine from large manufacturers sown to restaurant keepers who sold five cents' worth of the substitute for butter were arraigned yesterday in Part III. of the Court of General Sessions before Recorder 7th. Many of them were members of an association of retail grocers and all of these were represented by the me lawyer, Oscar Renaud, who had agreed several weeks ago that his clients would plead guilty if he found that the recent decision of the Court of Appeals left no loophole for escape for those who sold the substance whether they represented it as butter or oleomargarine.

He examined the decision carefully and many of his clients came in a body yesterday to redeem his pledge.

Deputy State Dairy Commissioner Van Valkenberg and bis counsel, LeRoy S. Gone, had been in consultation with District-Attorney Martine and had given him all the information which they had as to the circumstances under which the sales were made and the relative enlipsbility of the accused men. Mr. Martine and Assistant District-Attorney Davis had carefully prepared lists of the cases and Mr. Martine referred to them in making his recommendations to the Recorder. The law is now construed in the courts so as to render the question of the honesty of the dealer in his represenns as to what the substance is immaterial on his trial. If he sells oleomargarine as oleomargarine he is still guilty. The men first called by Mr. Martine were William E. Briggs and Bernard McQuade, grocers, of No. 129 West-st. They pleaded guilty and Mr. Martine said to the Recorder:

These are the first of fifty or sixty cases on this morning's calcular in which the indictments are for violation of the law commonly called the eleomargarine law. It is understood that pleas of guilty will be entered in all these cases, but it would be manifestly unfair that all the defendants should have the same punishment. Some of them are manufacturers of the substance, some are dealers who have made a regular business of dealing in eleomargarine, and many, on the other hand, are small retail dealers, against whom only one complained bermation as to the various defendants and the degrees of their culpability. The men now arraigned have been among the most persistent violators of this law. There are six Indictments argainst these two members of the same firm.

There has been some uncertainty about the construction of this law and it was only recently that the Court of Abpeals has finally settled the construction. In view of this fact and of the attitude of the defendants in pleading guilty and saxing the expense and time of trials, I will not many case ask for the imprisonment which is allowed by the law, nor will I ask in the case now before the court the task treme limit of fine, $1,000. I shall ask, however. It is in the same that the case of men who have been less persistent in their sale of this article.

Mr. Renaud asked that the fines might be as low as wealthe east that the first decisions seemed to be against.

Mr. Renand asked that the fines might be as low as possible and that the first decisions seemed to be against the constitutionality of the law, and that the dealers had been advised by counsel that the law was not constitutional and had acted on that advice.

The Recorder—I have nothing to do with the wisdom of the law nor its stringency. The law is here and must be enforced. I see much weight in the remarks of the District Attorney as to the various matters which may affect the junishment to be inflicted, and in this case I thus the defendants $250 or $125 each.

The fine was quickly paid and then the calling up, pleading and sentencing of the accused men quickly followed. Several of them were grocers who did a small business or hat given up their business since the acts complained of and were now out of employment. In a few of their cases the Recorder allowed the defendants to nave a few days in which to raise the money to pay their fines.

to have a few days in which to raise the mostly of periods their fines.

Peter H. Van Riper, a manufacturer of oleomargarine, was sentenced to pay $350, though his counsel pleaded that his client had lost $8,000 m the falling away of the value of his machinery in giving up business. Conrad H. Abelman, who said that he had only sold oleomargarine to a retail dealer who asked for it was at first unwilling to plead guilty, but finally did so and was fined $100. Two or three firms whose clerks were fined paid the fines for their employees. The fines aggregated over $4,700.

NO ALARM FELT BY IMPORTERS.

PERFECTLY CALM IN SPITE OF MR, MONTGOMERY'S LONG REPORT-MR, MULLEN'S COMMENT,

The report of Special Treasury Agent Montgomery in regard to the alleged undervaluation of woolien and other goods by prominent importing firms of this city, which was published yesterday, does not seem to affect them was published yesterday, does not seem to aneet them seriously. Some of them declared that they had not even read the document except in the most cursory way. Frederick Victor, of Victor & Acheles, Leonard and Church sits, are the consignees of C. Delius, one of the large German woollen manufacturers, who is accused of invoicing goods at over cleven per cent less than the amount actually and babitually realized by the consignor. But Mr. Victor declared that he had nothing to say about the matter. The report had not interested him sufficiently to cause him to peruse it carefully. The Board of Reappraiseement, he added, was the remedy for the Government in any case of supposed undervaluation as it was with the merchans when they believed the importations had been appraised too high.

A representative of Messrs Oelbermann & Co., No. 59 Greene-st, who are referred to in the report as having "spoken to a person" for the purpose of getting certain bales of goods through the Custom House here, declared that he was not aware that any foundation existed for charges of wrong doing. He said that a member of the firm, now in Europe, would be home in a formight or so and he might have something to say about the matter.

The member of the firm of Schnabel Brothers, was in when the reporter called, but it was learned that they did not feel worried over what Mr. Montgomery had said about them or the foreign branch of the house, C. Nellessen, Son & Co., of Aix-La-Chapelle. Appraiser McMullen said:

There is nothing in what Mr. Montgomery says that would enable us here to take steps toward remodying avolting that seriously. Some of them declared that they had not

McMulien said:

There is nothing in what Mr. Montgomery says that would enable me here to take steps toward remodying anything that he has found wrong. He does not specify sundetently to enable us to advance duties and then go before a merchant beard of appraisers and instity our action. But as a matter of fact we have been advancing rates on woolles goods long before of appraisers and instity our action. But as a matter of fact we have been advancing rates on woollen goods long before Mr. Montgomery ever went into the matter. For over a year new we have been increasing our appraisals in this department right along, and in some instances more rapidly than the merchants thought justifiable. Indeed, this department has, I think, received more attention from us than ever before in the thirty-five years that I have been employed by the dovernment. But I do not care to discuss what Mr. Montgomery has said or done. It is the merchants that he refers to who should do the talking.

to who should do the talking.

Mr. Montgomery is one of the new special agents of the Treasury Department. He was appointed by the present Administration, and the general opinion among those whom he mentions is that he is trying to make a great deal of capital out of a small lot of material. As one of the Appraiser's assistants put it: "There is too much rhetoric and too few facts in what he says."

AGAINST ENCROACHMENTS ON WEST-ST. BUSINESS MEN PROTESTING AGAINST THE ACTION OF STEAMSHIP COMPASIES.

There was an important meeting of business men in the office of Walker & Roon, No. 425 Hudson-st. yesterday, to take formal action against the encroachments of the steamship companies along the North River on the bulkheads and land between the piers. There were present representatives of many trades, among them being coal dealers, lumber dealers, produce men and dealers in masons' materials. These business men have used the bulkheads between the piers to load and unload the materials in which they deal, and they charge that the building of storehouses and sheds in front of the bulkheads has interfered materially with their business. The district which they are especially desirous of keeping from the steamship companies lies between Canal and Eleventh sts. The Morgan Steamship Company has put up a large structure in front of its pier at Charlton-st. It is 200 feet long and fifty feet wide, and for the use of the ground the company pays the city $3,500 a year, while for the lease of the pier it pays to the Dock Com-missioners $70,000. while for the lease of the per righy to the Dock Commissioners $70,000.

When the subject was first agitated a short time ago, Alderman W. H. Walker, of the IXth District, went to the Commissioner of Public Works to find out on what authority the Morgan Line obtained the use offthe land. The Commissioner of Public Works didn't know or wouldn't tell. The Dock Commissioners were next visited, and they referred the Alderman to the Corporation Counsel. The latter said that permission had been asked by and granted to the Morgan Line to build a shed, and a storehouse, in front of its pier.

"A shed," the Alderman said yesterday, "according to the city statutes, is simply a slanting roof securely supported and open on all sides. This building, however, is a closed one, with a foundation ten feet deep and six feet square."

OPPOSED TO A BRIDGE OVER THE HUDSON.

A dozen or more men who are opposed to the bridge scross the Hudson met yesterday at the Board of Trade and Transportation. Ambrose Snow presided and E. M. Clarksen acted as secretary. Colodel F. A. Conkling, on behalf of the committee appointed at a previous meeting to visit Albany, reported what the members had said to the Committee on Commerce and Navigation in advocacy of the Devereux bill, which, if passed, will repeal the charter of the Poughkeepsie Bridge Company. He then effered these resolutions:

Respect fully but carnessly requested to spare no legitimate effort to prevent the obstruction of the hudson River as a highway of travel and commerce by the construction at Poughkeepsie at any other point of a bridge requiring the rection of stone piers in its channel.

Resolved, That in order to maintain the usefulness of the Hudson River as an avenue of trade and travel it is the insperative duty of our merchants, manufacturers, produce dealers, forwarders and business men to appeal to their correspondents in every part of the State to make known to their immediate representatives in the Legislature their sense of the vast importance of the interests involved and to invoke prompt and carnest action for their protection.

The resolutions were adopted after being discussed by John T. Henry, William E. Cleary, James H. Seymour, J. M. Huribert and Mr. Hume, of the Bridge Company, whose remarks were heard with much impatience. OPPOSED TO A BRIDGE OVER THE HUDSON.

The trustees of the Gratuity Fund of the Produce Exchange yesterday discussed the case of M. D. Carrington. who died in Marseilles, France, on March 22. The death was not announced until the new year of the Gratuity Fund had expired and when the fifty deaths that called for assessments on members had been recorded. The trustees proposed to make another assessment, but the members strenuously objected and consider that the insurance be paid out of the surplus fund. At yesterday's meeting it was decided to refer the consideration to W. R. Fester, counsel of the Exchange, when the opinion in a few days. TOO MANY DEATHS TO SUIT THOSE WHO LIVE

WIGHTMAN'S ASSOCIATE ON TRIAL.

The trial of Samuel J. Lowell, jointly indicted with Andrew J. Wightman on a charge of attempting to blackmall Charles J. Wightman on a charge of attempting to blackmail Charles C. Sears, of Bufalo, was begin yesterday before Presiding Jadge Van Brunt and a jury in the Court of Oyer and Terminer. Wightman, having been convicted, is serving his term in Sing Sing. The two men were private detectives and it is alleged that in May, 1886, they endeavored by writing a letter to Mr. Sears threatening to expose his alleged improper relations with a notorious woman named May Annie Thatcher, to extort $1,000 from him. Thomas F. Grayl and Maurice Meyer appeared for the defence and Assistant District Attorneys Fitzeraid and Semple represented the people. Mr. Hearts and his lawyer, William P. Burr, told how the conspirators had been entrapped and the woman repeated her story as given in the Wightman trial. On cross-examination she said that Mr. Sears, who stood up so that she could see him, resembled a man with whom she had been chilmate, but she would not swear that it was he. Her examination was not finished when the court adjourned until 11 a. m. to-day.

"LARRY" DONOVAN NOT ALLOWED TO JUMP. The unkindness of a bridge policeman vesterday prevented in the Fourth Ward as "Larry," from adding new laurels to his jumping feats. "Larry's" value as a dime museum exhibit was on the ware and to retrieve his kaling glory as weit as to replents his purse, the jumper made arrangements to dive from the highest point of the long structure between 1 and 2 p. m. yesterday for a "wager" of $4,000. Haretolore only a few of his most intimate friends have been privileged with the "atrapht tip" as to the time of his jumping leats in this city. But this time he was more kind and notices were sent to the various newspaper offices and to his many friends in the Fourth Ward. Unfortunately for his success the police get wind of the proposed jump so the brige was carefully watched during the morning and every vehicle that might contain the jumper was scratinized by sharp-eyed officers. At 1,50 c clock a carriage was driven up to the entrance on the New York side and officer George Clark jooked inside and feand Denevan and William F. Cur, of Ne. 89 Rocoevelt at, He screened but the men and the jumper protested algoingly against the "hijostice," that the said was being done to him. But the policeman took him to the Tomba, and arraigned him before Justice Duffy for disorderly conduct. "Larry" was cool when he faced the justice and said that he had a right to be driven across the bridge. But when the justice learned that he was attired in his jumping suit, "Larry" was sentenced "to do three mouths on the Jai-not," in default of $2,000 ball. His commanion was fined $5. Oliver Keone, Donovan's lawyer, says that he will get ball for his client and bring the case before the Supreme Court.

DID KNIGHTS "HOUND" HIM TO DEATH! A WORKMAN GIVES THIS AS HIS REASON FOR COM-

MITTING SUICIDE-HIS DESPONDENCY. Eugeno Conner, a despondent shoemaker who hal complained of being annoyed by his fellow members of the Knights of Labor, killed himself in Taylor's Hotel at No. 189 Park-row shortly before 10 a. m. yesterday. was married, but did not live with his wife. For some time he had been employed as a laster in Hanan & Son's factory at No. 122 Centre-st., and he went out with other men when the strike occurred there last month. It was said that he did not sympathize with the strike, and after a week he went back to work. His excuse to the strikers was that he could not afford to be lifle, because he had a wife and two children to support. Mrs. Cenner lived with her father and was employed in the factory of Gardiner & Estes. It was said that she lived apart from her husband because she preferred work in a shop to keeping house. There was no estrangement between them. Conner's health had been broken by a nervous disorder which made him unable to sleep at times. After his return to the factory he frequently sai? that he was being "hounded to death" by the Knights of Labor because he had not remained on strike.

"What am I to do?" he would exclaim ha despairing tone. "I am sick and have a wife and children. If I cannot work I might as well die," several times he was heard to say that he wished he were dead. Alout a week ago he said that his life was in danger, as some of the strikers had threatened to kill him. His wife had been annoyed also and was made sick by the annoyance. In the hotel where Conner boarded be talked in the same way, and it was noticed last week that he had become more despondent than before. Yesterday morning he told the watchman at the hotel that he had not been able to sleep and would like to hill himself. He tasted some liquor but did not drink it. The watchman took some hot lemonade to Conner's room. Noticing that the shoemaler was in a desperate frame of mind, he went to get assistance. When he returned to the room he found Conner dving. The unbacey man had cut his throat with a knife. He was dead before an ambulance could be summoned.

The men who went out on strike with Conner denied yesterday that he had been threatened in any way. They said, solely on account of his beddly infirmities. One of the me

Mr. Hanan said that Conner had worked for him for some time and had always been a good, faithful man. He had been actroached by the Knights of Labor and his wife's position at Gardiner & Estes had been threatened, and as he was a delicate man these persecutions had no doubt led him to commit suicide.

George Bubear, England's champion carsman, was a passenger on the Cunsard line steamship Servia, which arrived yesterday. He has come to this country to participate in some races and is particularly anxious to meet Wallace Ross, with whom he arranged a match to be rowed on the Thames last year, whith was declared off owing to Ross's sudden departure for; this country. Ross states that he is ready to meet Bubear at any time and in any water, and it is probable that a race will be fixed for some date next month over one of the courses near the city. Pubbar miends to visit Australia and noest vise champion before returning to his house.

. BASEBALL NEWS AND COMMENT.

THE STORM CAUSES THE POSTPONEMENT OF ALL THE SCHEDULED GAMES. The scheduled game at Washington Park yesterday between the Brooklyn and Metropolitan clubs was postponed on ac-count of the storm. The same nines will play to day, weather permitting.

The players of the Brooklyn club are overloyed at the prospect of having to play no more Sunday games in Brooklyn.

The proposed game at the Polo Grounds yesterday in which Princeton Coolege club was to cross bats with the New-York rine, was not played owing to the weather. The toborgan sides are still in position on the grounds and there was almost enough snow for the winter sport.

The Chicago club is in need of McCormick or the services of some other good pitcher badly. Flyan is out of condition and Baldwin and Pyle are virtually influres. Clarkson cannot do all the pitching and is not the player to do it, even if he could.

of some other good pictures. Clark on cannot do all the pitching and is not the player to do it, even if he could.

Friends of the Metropolitan the player to do it, even if he could.

Friends of the Metropolitan the player to do it, even if he could.

Friends of the Metropolitan by Umpire Mequade in the tenth Inning in the Brooklyi-Metropolitan game on Saturslay. Had McQuade declared Terry out at second base, as he undoubtedly was, the home club would not have scored the four runs or probably any runs in that inning and the score would have been a tie, at least, and possibly a victory for the "Indians." Phillips was the first out. Terry would have been the second and then McTanany's short pop-up hit would have been captured by Meister, for with two out Meister would have been playing in deep field. The Metropolian club will be forced to cancel its postponed game with the Jersey City club at Jersey City today and play in Brooklyn instead.

The New York Reserves will play at Hartford to-day, to-morrow and on Taursday at Springfield, on Friday at Waterbury and on Saturday at Danbury.

It is generally expected that Ewing will play second base for the New York club for at least half of the season and most of the catching during the last half of the season.

Richardson, who is playing third base for the New York club at present, has not made as good an impression as expected. Friends of the club think that Gerhardt ought to have a trial there.

Over 24,000 people witnessed the three games between the St. Louis and Checage clubs that were played in St. Louis.

Terry of the Brooklyn club chows gam with the arrior of a skating rink girl. Sinth's jaw is always moving but he makes more notes than Terry. Phillips will not move at all, especially when he is on the bases unless some one sticks a pin in him.

The stopping of the Spinday games will be no great loss to the Brooklyn club in the end. Smitay playing never side and pin in him.

removed from the Forty-seventh street. Folice station on the Morgue to await the action of his relatives who has only of the city.

Mr. Potter came to this city several years ago from Syracuse, where his wife and daughter live. He had separated from his wife and came to New-York with his son. He did a fair business and was considered a lawyer of considerable shrewdness, and abolity. About a year and a half ago his son, to whom he appeared to be greatly attached, and who was studying law with him, deel. His death greatly affected has father, who from that time began to act querty. He from that time began to act querty. He should the deliasion that his relatives wished for some reason to cause his death, and he viewed with suspicion almost every one with whom he came in contact. He never occupied an office long before he began to suspect that those about him had designs upon his life. He kept his home address to himself, and took his meals for a few days ofly at the same restaurant for tear that the waters would poison him. Of late he had occupied desk-room in the office of Bush & Holling-worth, No. 23 Dey-st, and there he stopped up all the cracks near where he sat with newspapers, as he said he was afraid that the tenants on the floor below would blow poison up through the chinks. He had lately begun to suspect the other innates or the office and did not stay long in the room at one time. His death was caused by heart disease.

J. L. Slosson, the lawyer who fell from the Williamsburgerrybeat Superior into the East River on Sunday, was in the

A paper on elecution was read to the Eaptist ministers yes terlay by the Rev. A. S. Waish. He maintained that minis-ters should give more attention to the subject and neged them ters should give more attention to the subject and arged them to take lessons. Some ministers, he said, had voices which sounded like the combination of a life and a bury saw. The Rev. Ackland van Boyle, at one time an actor and an elecutionist, that not thank the minister should give much attention to elecution. He maintained that the libble passages should not be studied for practice, but that the minister should devote himself to "murdering" Tennyaen's "Charge of the Light Brigade." He would never read the poem well, but it would improve his reading of the Scriptures.

ARRESTING A POLICEMAN. Police Superintendent Marray yesterday made a private investigation in the case of Patrolinan Edward R. Galligan, of the Morrisania squad, who was accused of improper conduct toward a little giri last week. The policeman denied the charge, but Mr. Muray decided that it would be proper to have the case tried in a criminal court. He directed Sergeant Keating to place dailingan under agreet and arraign has in the Harlem Police Court in the afternoon. He was held in $500 ball.
